Pepper and Wine

Wie kommt der Pfeffer in den Wein?

The «wine with a hint of pepper»: that's the Grüner Veltliner from Austria's Wine Quarter. Where in the past it was hidden away as «sorrel» in almost opaque two litre bottles, today it is marketed successfully all over the world as the «wine with a hint of pepper» and found in the more expensive reaches of drinks menus from Hollywood and New York to Shanghai. Could the Grüner Veltliner be the new ambassador of refined Austrian pleasure? With the DAC (controlled district of Austria) designation, the Wine Quarter has found a firm favourite. This film sets out on a culinary and historical journey to find out what lies behind the unmistakable ablypeppery and spicy flavour of this Austrian wine.
