

SYNOPSIS

Marble Worlds - The Sölke Valley

Die Sölker Naturtäler

In one of the largest continuous and untouched regions of the European Alps, lies an extravagant sculpture park made out of incomparable subalpine marble. Internationally renowned artists have created a unique symbiosis here between the pristine highland environment and man-made space. This film takes viewers on a journey of discovery, past mountain lakes and deep gorges, where steep cliffs of marble protrude from the earth, back into the history of this precious stone and shows its mining and very special connection to art and architecture.

Year: 2009

Run-Time: 1 x 43 min.

Directed by Klaus T. Steindl

Written by Norbert Prettenthaler

A co-production of ORF/3sat and Epo-Film

Available worldwide

Languages: German (ORIGINAL) , English (DUBBED)

Format: 16:9

» SCREEN ONLINE