

SYNOPSIS

Mustangs - Living Legends

Mustangs - Lebende Legenden

Around 500 years ago they came from Europe - with Columbus, the Conquistadors and the first settlers. Predominantly, they were Spanish horses - Andalusians, Berbers and Arabians - later followed by English full bloods, Russian and Dutch heavy cold-bloods. This is the story of three North American wild horses - the first to be acquired from the US government by an Austrian that came to Austria in 2012. This three-part documentary shows how European Horsemen/Women train Mustangs, play with them and try to discover the difference to domesticated horses. Mustangs, an American legend -«the spirit of the wild west» and a symbol of freedom, speed, courage and resilience.
